What We Do

The highly experienced, licensed psychologists of Forensic Counseling and Evaluations offer a variety of professional, forensic services to the legal community, including probate matters. We conduct evaluations of adults to determine their competency for a variety of activities, including signing legal documents (wills, contracts, and assignments), individual rights, guardianship assessments, evaluations of mental capacity, and evaluations of elder abuse. Professionals collaborate with attorneys to determine appropriate courses of action and are prepared to testify in probate court about findings and recommendations. We provide professional services both in our office and through home visits.

FCE offers two-levels of competency evaluations: (1) a brief screening evaluation to quickly determine the competency of the person being evaluated; and (2) a comprehensive neuro-psychological evaluation to determine both the extent and areas of the individual's deficits. The brief screening evaluation, which subjects the person being evaluated to less stress, is an economical way to answer most probate questions. Nonetheless, we offer both options, for when a more in-depth evaluation is appropriate.

Our professional staff is experienced in working collaboratively with attorneys on probate and other matters. We take pride in our high degree of professionalism, our broad and deep experience, and our responsiveness in meeting our clients' needs.

Please feel free to contact us to further discuss how we might be of assistance to you and your clients.
